CARD OF THANKS

As leader of the Irma Rhythm Makers who sponsored the Benefit Dance held on October 18, I want to thank all those who so kindly helped with the music, also Cliff Jones and Mr. Hedley for looking after the door for us, also to the fine crowd that turned out through the mud and snow. It is co-operation like this that makes these things a success.

—Mrs. G. Hurst.

Wedding Bells . . .

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized last Friday afternoon when Miss Eunice Satre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ludvig Satre, became the bride of Mr. Carl Gulbraa son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gulbraa.

The church was tastefully decorated for the double-ceremony at which Rev. I. J. Saugen of Viking officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white frosted satin, styled with a net yoke outlined with a net frill trimmed with pearls, long, tapering sleeves and self-covered buttons down the back. The front of the skirt featured a scalloped hemline. Her floor-length veil trimmed with satin applique was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls. A three-tiered pearl necklace was her only jewelry and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bride's sister, Avis Satre, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of blue taffeta, fashioned with a net yoke outlined with taffeta frills, short sleeves, and a gathered skirt. The bride's second attendant, Miss Lily Nelson, wore a yellow taffeta gown of similar style. Each attendant had a floral head-dress toned to match her gown and each carried a colonial bouquet.

Mr. Knute Gulbraa was best man. Mr. Curtis Satre, brother of the bride, was Mr. Ralph Erickson, brother of the groom, and Mr. Donald McKay.

Mrs. Marvin Reitan played the wedding music and Mr. Ralf Jakobsen of Sedgewick was soloist, singing "Because."

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Satre chose a gray afternoon frock with black accessories. A corsage of roses completed her ensemble. Mrs. Gulbraa, mother of the groom, was also in a gray afternoon frock and wore black accessories. Her corsage was also of roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home for 35 guests. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a church and placed upon a centre-piece, featuring Norwegian embroidery—a gift from the groom's mother. Serving were Mrs. Jack Halvorsen, Mrs. Marvin Reitan, Mrs. Knute Bergseth, Arlene and Solveig Steffensen.

Rev. Saugen proposed the toast to the bride, Miss Arlene Steffensen was soloist, singing "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly."

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gulbraa left later for a wedding trip to the western U.S. For travelling the bride wore a wine suit with white and navy accessories and a navy top coat. A silver fox fur completed her going-away outfit.

On their return the couple will reside on the groom's farm in the Strawberry Plains district.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Miss G. Farden and Mr. C. Satre from Saskatoon, Mrs. Ray Fuder from Wainwright, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Christensen from Fabyan, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. K. Bergseth from Loughheed.

No Trace of Whooping Crane In Northwest

Seen In Saskatchewan

EDMONTON—A 2½-month aerial probe of the Yukon by an Edmonton wildlife expert has failed to reveal a trace of North America's mystery bird, the whooping crane.

J. D. Soper, Dominion Wildlife Officer for Alberta, returned to Edmonton after joining officials of the Yukon Territorial Government in a hunt for the birds.

The party covered several thousand miles by air, flying almost the whole distance at 100 to 400 feet heights to observe closely the areas where whooping cranes might nest.

No trace of the birds was visible. Indians and Eskimos who live in the territory reported that cranes had not been seen in the area.

Whooping cranes, once fairly common in Alberta and other prairie provinces, now are almost extinct and only 34 birds are believed to exist on the whole continent.

They winter in the southern United States and migrate north, but location of their summer nesting grounds is a mystery despite prolonged searches by naturalists.

REGINA — At least five Saskatchewan residents have seen whooping cranes flying south this fall, the provincial museum reported.

Fred Bard, museum curator, is in charge of a census of the crane in Canada, which is being conducted by the Audubon society of New York and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service.

Funny and Otherwise

A little old lady going on a bus was anxious not to pass her destination. She poked the driver with her umbrella and asked, "Is that the First National Bank?"

"No, Madam," replied the driver with frigid courtesy, "that's my stomach."

Professor—What is your idea of civilization?

Student—It's a good idea. Somebody ought to start it.

Sergeant (calling roll)—Private Jones!

Voice—Absent!

Sergeant—Quiet! Let Jones answer for himself.

Mother—What are you doing in front of that mirror?

Jimmy—I want to see how I look with my eyes shut.

"Who settles where you and your wife will go for your holidays?" "I do, of course. She says where she'd like to go and I say, 'Right! That's settled!'"

Two druggists were talking about one of their associates who had just died:

First—He was a great drug-gist.

Second—He was, but don't you think he made his chicken salad a little too salty?

"Waiter, this is a small steak."

"Yes, sir, but you'll find it will take you a long time to eat it."

Barber (whispering to the apprentice): "Here comes a man for a shave."

Apprentice: "Let me practice on him."

Barber: "All right, but be careful and do not cut yourself."

The country dance floor was jammed to the four walls and after one number a gallant youth said to a young lady beside him: "Thanks so much for the dance."

"Dance? Dance?" she queried.

He replied: "Why I was just pushing through the crowd to reach the refreshment stand." 2903

To Try Out New Nickel Process

VANCOUVER — Sherritt Gordon mines will use a new nickel-producing process perfected by Prof. Frank Forward, head of the metallurgy department at the University of British Columbia.

Reported cheaper than any in common use today, the process will be brought into commercial use at Sherritt's Lynn Lake, Man., site in 1953. In the new process, nickel concentrate is dissolved in ammonia. The solution is then treated chemically to recover copper, nickel and cobalt separately.

With the present process used in Canada, nickel is smelted and subjected to chemical treatment which separates copper from nickel. Copper, nickel and cobalt then are produced by electrolysis.

Hallowe'en A Pain In The Neck

For years the approach of Hallowe'en has presented a vexing problem to the town fathers and police department of every town and city in North America. Hallowe'en the evening of Oct. 31, when the veil of All Hallow's or All Saints is kept with merry making and jollity. In the old Celtic calendar Oct. 31 was the last day of the year, a time when spirits and witches went abroad, and it is thought that the Christian Hallowe'en may be only the survival of the Druidical ceremony which took place then. Since then it has become a nightmare in most communities and deteriorated from its original meaning and purpose.

In many communities it has come to mean an evening of vandalism destruction and removal of property, overturning and removing small buildings, and other nuisances that aggravate the average citizen. Yet some progress has been made in preventing this rowdiness by community groups arranging and making plans for a safe and sane Hallowe'en with parties and other entertainment for teenagers and youngsters. For a number of years this community was almost immune from vandalism on Hallowe'en, but broke forth again last year. The visit to homes and business places by the smaller children dressed in various disguises and costumes with their cry of 'tricks or treats' is condoned by everyone and quite welcome, but that is as far as it should go. All those who are bent on wanton vandalism are reminded that destruction of property or trespassing on other people's property is against the law whether it happens on Hallowe'en or any other time. The exuberance of youth sometimes forgets this fact. Have a little innocent fun if you must but let it go at that. Your community will be proud of you and you will have no regrets.

Let's have a safe and sane Hallowe'en, folks.

Talk About The Weather

Whatever may be said of October weather it has been exceptional. Old timers have recalled similar Octobers in the past but not so lengthy in unseasonableness. It was fortunate that August and September were warm and sunny and harvest operations were going along smoothly, the majority of farmers got their crops threshed and in the bins or elevators. It is a cause of great concern and disappointment to those who did not finish threshing or did not have the opportunity to commence on account of various reasons, such as having late maturing crops, work partly done, or doing custom work for neighbors and neglecting their own. No one can blame for assisting others in gathering in their crops. If favorable weather had continued for another two weeks most everyone would have had their crops garnered for the season.

Just what the feed situation is at the present time we do not know but are inclined to believe that it is not too plentiful. If a hard winter is in the books, on the calendar, or in the minds of weather prophets, it is something to conjecture with. Our own weather observer observes that we had an exceptional summer, an exceptional fall, and that an exceptional winter will follow. Be that as it may, we hope it will be an exceptionally mild one. Your guess is as good as ours.

Bet You Don't Know This About Advertising

by Susan

Quiz No. 6

How much does it cost to advertise a 10¢ box of America's biggest-selling crackers? Is it 1¢? 2¢? 3¢?

Answer: It costs less than 1/10¢. And that's only half the story. Advertising lowers your cost two ways:

Cuts the selling costs. And by helping make mass production possible, lowers the production costs, too.

So advertising saves you many times that 1/10¢ per box.

Cowboy Judge's Ashes Scattered

CALGARY, Oct. 20.—The last wish of Alberta's cowboy judge, Hon. C. W. Ives, former chief justice of Alberta, who died last July was fulfilled when his ashes were scattered at the round-up camp on Spring Hill on the old Cochrane ranch.

The ceremony was conducted recently in the Hillspring area, 40 miles southwest of Macleod, by his nephew, John McNeill, Calgary barrister, his wife and John J. Furman of Macleod, the lone survivor of a gallant band of cowboys who rode the open range 60 years ago.

Handing her husband a saucerful of white powder: "Taste that and tell me what you think it is."
"It tastes like soda."
"That's what I told Bridget. She declares it's rat poison. Taste it again and make sure."

NEWSNOTES FROM YOUR HOME ECONOMIST.

Buy By Grade . . .

Many Canadian foods sold to the public are graded according to quality. Such foods carry a distinct grade marking, either on the container or on the product itself, which indicates the quality. I'm sure that all of you have noticed this marking. If you buy by grade, you may buy with confidence.

Did you know that canned fruits and vegetables are graded this way?

Fancy quality—highest grade, as nearly perfect as possible, packed from sound, clean fruits or vegetables at perfect maturity, free from blemishes, of good color and uniform in size, liquid clear . . . for special purposes where uniformity of size and color is essential. Choice quality—slight variation in size, color and maturity allowed but must be packed from fruits or vegetables which are sound, clean and free from blemishes, liquid fairly clear . . . for use where flavor and tenderness are desired, but perfect uniformity in size and color is not essential.

Standard quality—prepared from products of good quality but which are not necessarily of the uniform size required in higher grades . . . for use where appearance is not a consideration and where the higher grades would be extravagant. Fruit of this grade is good for puddings, gelatine desserts or frozen dishes; vegetables are good for soups or scalloped dishes.

Sub-standard quality—a low grade product packed from clean, sound fruits and vegetables which need not be uniform in maturity color or size.

To save quite a reasonable amount of your grocery money, buy the grade to suit the use. If your storeroom hasn't got the grade you want, keep asking for it. There is a Dominion Department of Agriculture Bulletin called "Buy By Grade" which explains how all foodstuffs are graded, and what you should expect in each grade.

More About Aluminum

A tight fitting cover on the utensil is essential to prevent the steam from escaping once it is formed. Of course where foods have their own moisture, the water may be omitted entirely, if you prefer. The heat will then draw a certain amount of moisture from the food to form the steam. It is a question as to which method is preferable. Adding a few tablespoons of water leaves the additional moisture in the food. But you must obtain steam from one source or the other to drive out the air; otherwise the heat-sensitive vitamins tend to be destroyed by the presence of the oxygen of the air. The thermal conductivity of aluminum is about three times that of steel or iron. Aluminum utensils, therefore, save time. Aluminum also retains heat well so that once heated, the vessel maintains a cooking temperature, even with greatly reduced heat, and so it is economical.

Be sure to read next week's thrilling episode when you will learn about the characteristics of aluminum utensils.

Did you answer "No," a specific dye cannot be applied to all fibres."

If you did you were right because, in general, the type of dye required depends entirely upon the fibre to be colored and the ultimate use to be made of the finished article. When a fabric is composed of two or more fibres, it is possible to dye it different colors at the same time and in the same dye bath. For example, if a fabric is composed of wool and acetate rayon, one dye can be selected to color the wool while not affecting the rayon, and another dye to color the rayon while not affecting the wool. There are nine types of dyes and each type is for dyeing specific fibres only.

For next week see if you know this one—Will you get more volume, for a meringue say, if you beat the egg-white when it is warm than when it is cold?

Baked-on stains in your oven can be removed easily if you leave a shallow dish of ammonia in the closed oven overnight.

Potatoes Must Be Sold On Grade

Alberta potato-growers are reminded by W. Lobay, Supervisor of Pest Control, Alberta Department of Agriculture, that regulations in this province call for all potatoes to be sold on a grade basis. This enables us to establish a quality product and enhances our reputation for quality. Potato grading benefits both producer and consumer. If the consumer is assured of the standard of the product, he buys with confidence and the demand continues.

Mr. Lobay urges all growers to pay strict attention to these grading regulations. He points out that the quality of the 1950 crop is far superior to that of either of the past two years and that the percentage of culls will be comparatively low. Grade all potatoes before offering for sale, he advises. If an inspector finds ungraded potatoes or potatoes under grade standard being offered for sale, the potatoes will be placed under detention and the vendor liable to prosecution.

Full information about grading standards and regulations can be obtained from the Field Crops Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, or from vegetable inspectors at Edmonton, Lethbridge, and Brooks.

Expansion Plan Benefits Citizens $4,000 Plan to Supply Gas to Over 4,000 Edmontonians

More than 4,000 gas consumers will be serviced in Edmonton by the end of this year in the $4,000 expansion program being rushed to completion by NWU.

About 5,400 new installations will be provided to customers throughout the gas company's whole system this year, reported D. K. Yorath, general manager.

More than $500,000 has been spent to improve and enlarge the Edmonton distribution system and accommodate the demand.

MAJOR YEAR

"Indications are that 1951 will be another major construction year for the company," said Mr. Yorath. "Plans are now being prepared by our engineers. Orders have been placed for anticipated pipe requirements."

The gas company is rounding out the largest construction program in its history.

More than $1,000,000 was spent in the company's Viking-Kinsella field, where nine new wells were connected to the system. 35 miles of field line were laid to connect the wells and enlarge the field gathering system.

The field measuring and pressure control station was rebuilt and enlarged to handle the increasing demand for gas.

More than $700,000 was spent on facilities to tap the gas supply from the Imperial Oil conservation plant at Devon. These included a 22-mile pipeline, eight inches in diameter.

A new Edmonton regulating station is being built to handle the city's winter demand.

Another $900,000 was spent in extending the distribution system outside Edmonton, including lines to Beverly, Hobbema and Kinsella. Natural gas will be turned on in Kinsella in a few days and in Fort Saskatchewan within two weeks.

The line to Fort Saskatchewan was laid at a cost of $423,000.

The new staffhouse has been finished at the company's camp north of Viking. It will be occupied early in November.

More than one third of Canadian aluminum production, used domestically, finds its way into the construction trade.

By the end of the 18th century gun-making was the second largest industry in Birmingham, England.

A Canada wide survey shows transportation costs have little or no relation to increases in the cost of sugar.

Some doctors now dispute the old belief that sugar causes tooth decay. Cone-chewing natives in the sugar plantations have fine teeth.

World of Wheat

By H. G. L. Strange

More About the New Rust Threat

It is becoming generally known that a new race of wheat stem rust 5-B appeared this late summer on the spring wheat and durum crops of the Northern part of the United States and in Southern Canada. Fortunately no damage of any significance was done in Canada. In Northern Dakota, however, fields of durum were reduced from an expectation of 20 bushels to the acre to 12 bushels, and some loss was suffered in spring wheat crops. This new race of stem rust, 15-B, seems now to be established on wheat plants, and should conditions next year be favorable for the multiplication of the rust spores, it is possible that serious damage may be done to the spring wheat crops of the United States and in the former rust area of Manitoba and Sask. So serious is the whole matter that an international meeting has been called to meet at Grand Forks, North Dakota, on November 6, where the most eminent authorities in plant pathology and plant breeding of the United States and Canada will attend to exchange ideas and to discuss ways and means of dealing with this threatening problem. Without any doubt important recommendations will be made to both the United States and Canadian Governments by this Conference.

Demand For Sheep Suddenly Popular

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 — Climbing world prices for wool and buoyant prices for meat have stirred sudden popularity for sheep-farming in Canada.

J. W. Graham of the agriculture department's productions service said yesterday that the demand for breeding stock has been "terrific." "There wasn't enough to go round."

Demand for stock also was sweeping the United States, he added. He had an order for 500 head from an American source on his desk and "it can't be filled."

Scamper for Sheep
The Canada-wide scamper for sheep, said Mr. Graham, was caused partly by the world wool situation. Canada normally consumed about 100,000,000 pounds of wool a year.

In some years she has been able to produce about 20,000,000 lbs. on her own land. This year, it was doubted whether she would produce more than 7,900,000.

Stocks of sheep in Canada have slipped from about 4,000,000 head during the Second World War to about 2,000,000.

Immigrants Vitrally Needed in Canada Claims Official

Canada wants 300,000 selected immigrants in 1951.

This was stated by J. D. MacFarlane, assistant commissioner of immigration, who is from Ottawa.

He said the director of immigration with a large, trained staff of settlement officers at present in Britain and continental Europe for selection of immigrants.

Apathy of the average Canadian toward the vital need for increased population has amazed Mr. MacFarlane.

DISINTERESTED

Even the foreign-born, who could bring relatives out here without restrictions in former years, are strangely disinterested in immigration now.

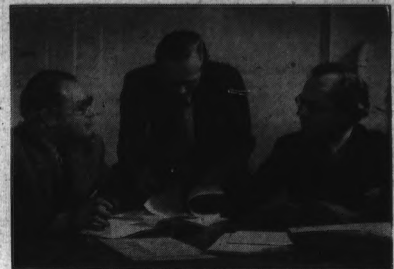

Immigration policy of the federal government has been greatly widened of late with steps being taken to speed-up and facilitate movement of persons desirous of settling in Canada.

Any person wishing to sponsor a relative or friend in Europe will find little difficulty in having the case approved, Mr. MacFarlane said.

The button is one of the oldest but most important of man's inventions. Think how we'd appear without it.

The Setter is an English creation, having been developed centuries ago through cross-breeding of the Spanish Pointer and Spaniel.

MOVIE SCENE

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

INTELLIGENCE

By F. R. JONES

Johnny Couldn't Understand What He Found.

"CAN'T you ever do anything right?" Mr. Martin said angrily. Johnny looked at him with his usual puzzled expression. Then he turned and looked at the two big cans of paint on the floor.

"You said for me to bring . . ." he began.

"I told you to bring two gallons of flat white," Mr. Martin said. "That's glossy white you've got there."

Johnny stared at the cans, as though somehow they had changed while he was bringing them up from the basement. Johnny was nineteen and he had been working for Mr. Martin for three years, sweeping out the store, keeping the basement clean and lending a hand with the heavy items. But it was hard for him to remember things and he made a lot of mistakes.

"Take it back," Martin said. "And don't forget to clean up those rags down there. You shouldn't leave them lying around. It's dangerous."

A customer came in and Martin hurried to the front of the store. Johnny stood looking after him, then picked up the cans and went down the stairs.

That night, after the store was closed and Johnny had gone home, Martin sat for a long time in his little office at the back, staring at his books and bills. Finally he shook his head. No use checking any more. He was through. And so was his business.

One too many hardware stores in town, he thought bitterly.

Well, he'd done all he could. He'd let the clerks go, one by one, until now he ran the store alone except for Johnny. He'd kept hoping that things would pick up, that somehow he'd get his share of customers. He might barely be able to meet the rent for another month, but what about all these other bills? They'd force him into bankruptcy, and he'd lose his car, his house, everything.

His mouth hardened. They weren't going to do that to him. It hadn't been his fault—just bad luck. But to lose everything.

It was late when Martin let himself out. His plan was set. There would be nothing strange about a fire in a store full of paint and oil. Happened all the time. And if anybody did suspect, it would be easy to shift the blame to the boy.

Funny, how he'd been sore when he'd seen that Johnny had forgotten to clean those oily rags against the wall. He had thought of starting the fire that night. Too dangerous. Somebody might remember his late light. Tomorrow was Saturday. Much better.

As Martin was waiting on a customer the next day Johnny came up with his broom and began sweeping behind the counter.

"Say, Johnny," Martin said loudly, "get those rags out of the basement. I told you before."

"Sure, Mr. Martin," Johnny said, and went on sweeping.

Martin winked at the customer. "Johnny kind of forgets things," he said.

The store kept open late Saturday, and it was after ten when he went down to the basement. Johnny had forgotten the rags again!

He poured the kerosene and lit the candle. The candle light couldn't be seen outside. By the time it burned down and the fire started it would be ten in the morning—Sunday morning. And there'd be nothing left to show how it started. Now, home to bed. The insurance money was as good as in his pocket.

Martin answered his door Sunday morning. It was a detective.

"What happened?" he blurted out. "Nothing—thanks to that boy."

"Johnny?"

"Yeah, kind of dumb. He forgot this was Sunday, on account of he was in a stew about something he was supposed to have done at the store. He went back this morning. Went in through a basement window. Couldn't understand what he found so he called the cop on the beat. He understood, though, Mr. Martin. He understood fine."

CINNAMON BUNS

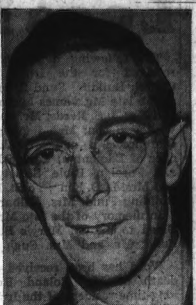

Measure into large bowl, 1 c lukewarm water, 2 tps. granulated sugar, salt until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 2 envelopes Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 min., THEN stir well. Scald 1 c milk and stir in 1/2 c granulated sugar, 1/4 tsp. salt, 6 tbs. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Add to yeast mixture and stir in 2 well-beaten eggs. Stir in 3 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 3 c. more once-sifted bread flour. Knead until smooth and elastic; place in greased bowl; brush top with melted butter or shortening. Cover and set in warm place, free from draft. Let rise until doubled in bulk. While dough is rising, combine 1/2 c brown sugar (lightly pressed down), 3 tps. ground cinnamon, 1 c washed and dried seedless raisins. Punch down dough and divide into 2 equal portions; form into smooth balls. Roll each piece into an oblong 1/4" thick and 16" long; loosen dough. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with raisin mixture. Beginning at a long edge, roll up each piece loosely, like a jelly roll. Cut into 1" slices. Place just touching each other, a cut-side up, in greased 7" round layer-cake pans (or other shallow pans). Grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, 20-25 minutes. Serve hot, or reheated.

The following donations were received for the Irma United Church Building Fund in memory of the late Mr. James Fenton: Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Reeds; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bacon; Mrs. Renwick and Clarence; Mr. and Mrs. J. Fletcher of Edmonton; To the British and Foreign Bible Society; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. King; To St. Mary's Building Fund; Mrs. Milburn.

In memory of the late Mr. John Ostad to the St. Mary's Building Fund: Mr. and Mrs. Pugh.

Word has been received of the death of Mr. Roland Herbert, long-time resident of the Irma district who passed away in an Edmonton hospital on Monday last.

There will be an FUA meeting at Ross School on October 30. Everybody welcome.

The Rev. E. Heuer will be showing some colored films in the Albert school on November 1. Rev. Heuer's visit to Albert last year was very much enjoyed so keep this date in mind.

Mrs. Colin McLean received word on Monday last of the death of her nephew's wife, Mrs. Gordon Deaton of Calgary. Gordon resided at Irma for some time and his friends here feel much sympathy for him and his two little children.

Mrs. R. Simmermon has returned from a trip to Saskatoon where she visited with her sister, Mrs. Sparrow.

Mrs. Ralph Moyer has gone to Aylmer, Ont., where her husband is taking radar training in connection with the RCAF.

Joe Rohrer has been a patient in the Wainwright hospital for over a week now.

Mrs. R. Gage and small daughter have been visiting Mrs. Gage's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hurst for the past two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Gage are leaving shortly for Portland, Ore., where they intend to make their future home.

All Irma Old Timers will be sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Albertha Burkholder who passed away recently at the home of her daughter at Penticton, B.C.

We know of a local musician who shaves he says "with tooth paste"

We fear for his mental condition if he grows teeth all over his face. (The above poetess who contributed the above our local column might have said "Dental condition" too, Ole.

The Rev. H. W. Inglis was guest speaker at Wainwright United Church on Sunday, October 22, when the Wainwright Church was celebrating its 40th anniversary. The Rev. M. Dobson exchanged pulpits with Mr. Inglis on this occasion and addressed the Irma congregation that evening.

Mrs. A. Enger was an Edmonton visitor last week.

The Irma Ladies Choir has been reorganized with Mrs. Wm. Patterson plant. Will anyone having spare choir books or surplices, please leave them at the church.

ATTENTION!

Hog Producers

— FRIDAY EVERY WEEK —

We load and ship your hogs the same day at about 5 o'clock. Your hogs are fed and watered in transit and not laying around before being slaughtered.

You receive Edmonton Plant Price per dressed pound and your settlement is back to you by the following Friday. This means more money and profits for your hogs.

No commission expenses, paying salaries or deductions from your pigs and you receive the current prevailing price and market. You are always protected against drop in Market Price. Try and see the more money returns.
